If we don’t get these relationships right, we have very little hope, if any, of having a right relationship with God.